Icestock sport

is a very old sport popular mainly in the Alps and has some similarities with curling. But still, the sport has its own priorities, which are considered to be independent from curling. Icestock has his historic costumes and is a national sport in the Alps. Stock sport is a very precise sport!

Today the stocksport centers are located in southern Germany, Austria, northern Italy and Switzerland. In northern Germany, the curling is becoming more widespread, to the far north to Flensburg. In addition, the Czech Republic, Slovenia, Poland and Hungary, the curling is quite actively pursued. Growing interest in the sport has seen also in many other countries, such as Australia, Africa, USA, Canada and South America.

The origins of Icestock sport in Namibia

The Icestock Association of Namibia had been established specially for the World Cup in 2004 and the players took only 6 weeks of training prior to the World Cup in part. The athletes were affiliated to the Deutsche Turn- und Sportverein in Windhoek until 2009. Afterwards the players lose their training opportunity. By the way, in Namibia Icestock is not played on ice, but on a concrete surface with sticks, which are equipped with a special summer lining. Since then, the players have to rely on unsuitable playing surfaces.

The Achievements

The Association so far has participated in three World Cups. The fourth participation in Innsbruck 2014 is already being planned. The African Cup has been won three times, in each case against the national team from Kenya. National Championships are held since 2006, but had to be canceled twice due to absence of the playing surface.

The future plans

With a mobile Icestock surface we want to give Icestock players in Namibia again fair and professional training opportunities and establish the sport in the country. In Namibia, Icestock is the only active-played winter sport and the IAN wants to make his contribution, that the sport becomes Olympic and Namibia can for the first time participate at the Winter Games.

The IAN is willing to take a leading role in Africa and build the first professional summer track on the African Continent. A Germany-based company has made an offer to the Association, so that the IAN with your help will be able to carry out the project.

How it works:

Have a Look at the website of the project. Under the address:
http://www.detlef.iway.na/ean/index.php?c=projekt_bahn
 you learn more about the current status of the project.

With the help of partners the first mobile Icestock Rinks in Africa will be created. Each partner can purchase individual tiles of the Icestock Rink or different packets of tiles of an average value of 180 Namibian Dollars or 18 Euros per tile. The partner will appear on a replica of the curling rink for the duration of one year on the Association's website. A kick on the logo leads directly to the desired company page.

Depending on the amount of the investment, the logo appears in various sizes.

The default size of the logo is scaled as follows:

| | Number | | Amount in N$ | in € |
|--|--------|-----------|---------------|------|
|  | 1x1 | 1 Tile | 250 | 25 |
| | 2x2 | 4 Tiles | 1000 | 100 |
| | 3x3 | 9 Tiles | 2000 | 200 |
| | 4x4 | 16 Tiles | 3000 | 300 |
| | 5x5 | 25 Tiles | 4500 | 450 |
| | 6x6 | 36 Tiles | 6500 | 650 |

The Namibian curling in the Press

Since its founding in 2004, the Icestock caught look up in the press, nationally and international. What started as a crazy idea was celebrated a year later with the first win of the newly created African Cup. In 2008, the first women team was sent to the World Cup in Italy. the "Cool Runnings from Namibia" attended during the World Cup 2012 in Waldkraiburg (Germany) nationwide sensation and bestowed the Association first appearances on SAT 1, numerous radio interviews on the portal by Eurosport and almost all major national and regional newspapers. The sponsors in Germany were more than happy.

The sportswear company JAKO equipped the 10-member team professional wise: Their new green-black outfit was probably rightly considered one of the finest and most striking of all participating nations at the last World Cup in Germany. The well-known Icestock supplier Ebra supported the team with donations and considered to give the Namibian Team more support to participate at the 2014 World Cup. Without the generous support of the "Erhartinger Buam", a Brass Band from Bavaria who played at several occasions in Windhoek, and the help of Namibian sponsors such as Sanlam Namibian, Satcom, Pentagon Brokers and the team could not have taken part at the last World Championship in Germany. We sincerely thank all of them.
